2017 Annual Report
GAINING MOMENTUM

DREAM BIG BE THANKFUL

Dear Friends of MUW,

The Monadnock region is and always has been a great place to call home, but we no doubt face our share of challenges. We have one of the highest rates of child maltreatment in New Hampshire, 11th grade students at most schools in our region are scoring lower than the state average in reading and math, and our wages are among the lowest in the state. We also face the same challenges other United Ways across the country are dealing with: a decline in giving.

The strategic plan we adopted aims to help our community address these complex issues. This year, with your support, we are well under way, moving forward in the fight for children, education and financial stability in every community throughout our region.

In the summer of 2017, we merged with Impact Monadnock, making it our signature early childhood initiative. We believe our concentrated efforts around children will give our youngest citizens the stepping stones they need to reach their highest academic and financial potential as they grow. The merger brought with it an increase of resources – both through the people it has attracted to our cause and new funding streams targeted toward this important work.

We are now taking that Impact Monadnock model and applying it throughout the organization. In addition to working with individual agencies, we also focus our efforts on bringing people together in coalitions and collectives – groups that work together in a structured, measurable way to solve complex problems.

To learn more about how this model is working, read about the Monadnock Home Visiting Alliance on Page 4 of this report.

Throughout the year we focused on laying the groundwork for success in the years to come. We began meeting with our partners about our new direction to gain their insights while working with them to prepare for our first funding cycle under the new model.

Our community has stepped forward to provide input at every step along the way. It is a multi-partner effort – through taskforces and committees of donors, partners and business leaders – that helped us put goals and strategies in place this year. Our new model raises the bar for what all of us can do together. At MUW, we strive to be a resource that our partners can count on to help them achieve their respective – and collective – missions.

Thank you all for believing in us. We are stronger when we Live United.

Sincerely,

Terry Williams, 2017 Board Chair

Liz LaRose, President

FOCUSING ON OUR youngest citizens

In June, Impact Monadnock merged with Monadnock United Way, becoming our signature early childhood initiative. Impact Monadnock's mission is to prepare young children from birth to age five in the Monadnock Region for future academic, career and life success.

Impact Monadnock is structured around bringing teams of community members together to work on issues affecting children from birth to age 5. Some of IM's accomplishments since the merger include:

- Supporting the Impact Monadnock Business Ambassadors in efforts to expand child- and family-friendly policies and practices in workplaces.
- Increasing the use of a developmental screening tool in medical and educational settings.
- Creating a learning community that provides networking and professional development for early childhood professionals around supporting social and emotional development for young children.
- Forming the Monadnock Home Visiting Alliance, an initiative consisting of four agencies working together to expand the reach and effectiveness of homevisiting services. See page 4 for more about this collaborative.

Thank you for your continued generosity, which helps support this important work. For more information, visit www.muw.org/impactmonadnock.

The Monadnock Home Visiting Alliance (MHVA) is a collaborative backed by Impact Monadnock. The alliance is composed of Home Healthcare Hospice & Community Services (HCS) Healthy Starts, The Grapevine Family and Community Resource Center, Rise for baby and family and The River Center Family and Community Resource Center.

The alliance is using a unique model that involves joining forces -- bringing each of their respective networks and resources -- to advance a similar goal. Collaboration among these agencies leads to many benefits, including increasing the number of families accessing services in the region and improving the quality of the services through shared professional development goals for home visitors.

Expanding the reach of home visiting services in the region is incredibly important. According to a recent study, a third of New Hampshire children may be at risk of compromised development from birth due to low birth weight, low family resources or other difficult circumstances. Home visiting has been considered an effective form of early intervention.

For Monadnock families, home visiting services from the MHVA agencies have ranged from speech therapy for children diagnosed with autism to breastfeeding assistance for moms with premature babies.

As part of their work, alliance leaders said they are working, as a group, to raise awareness about the benefits and eligibility for home visiting services and reduce the stigma that currently exists around home visiting.

'SOMEONE TO COUNT ON'

Kaylee Hodgman loves to read.

It's one of her getaways. Her other getaway is Jessica Uhler, Kaylee's Big Sister.

Kaylee, a 12-year-old seventh grader who has been in the Big Brothers Big Sister one-on-one mentoring program for several years, loves the time she spends with Jessica.

"I don't have many friends my age," she said. "Adults get me better."

Kaylee's mom, Erin Macie, said Kaylee and Jessica's relationship has been "absolutely amazing" for her daughter, who often craves more one-on-one time than her family can always provide.

"It gives her someone to trust, someone she can count on," Erin said. "It's her person."

Jessica and Kaylee see each other at least every other weekend for a few hours. Sometimes they head to the library or watch a movie. Other times they grab lunch or take a short road trip.

"It's very rewarding and also really fun," Jessica said of their relationship. "When people think of being a mentor, they think, 'Oh my God, I have to impart wisdom!' But you really don't. It's just common sense. It's more fun and less pressure than the word mentor implies."

Jessica said BBBS is a program where she can see the positive impact on everyone involved – the Big, the Little and the family.

With MUW's strong focus on children and education, BBBS is a great fit as one of our funded partners. In 2017, more than 150 youth were matched with a mentor through the program.

Jess and Kaylee attend a Halloween party as Cinderella and her fairy godmother.
